La parábola que Jesús cuenta es sencilla. El rey envía a sus sirvientes a invitar a los invitados al banquete de bodas que está preparando para su hijo. Los oyentes se habrían sorprendido al saber que los primeros invitados rechazaron la invitación. ¿Quién rechazaría la invitación del rey? Sigue un segundo envío de sirvientes. Nuevamente, para gran sorpresa de los oyentes, algunos invitados ignoran la invitación. Algunos de los invitados llegan incluso a maltratar y matar a los sirvientes. El rey invoca su venganza contra estos asesinos destruyéndolos e incendiando su ciudad.

Podríamos detenernos aquí por un momento. ¿Por qué algunos invitados matarían a los sirvientes enviados para invitarlos al banquete de bodas del rey? Podría ser posible que el rey fuera un tirano, como lo demuestra la destrucción de la ciudad por parte de quienes rechazaron su invitación. Pero si seguimos esta idea, entonces la alegoría parece tratar de algo más que el reino de los cielos. Es más probable que la destrucción de la ciudad hubiera sido una imagen poderosa correspondiente a la destrucción de Jerusalén por los romanos en el año 70 d.C., que habría sido un acontecimiento importante para la audiencia de Mateo.

Ahora que los invitados son considerados indignos de asistir al banquete de bodas del rey, se envía a los sirvientes a invitar a quien puedan encontrar. Llegan los invitados, pero parece que aceptar la invitación del rey conlleva ciertas obligaciones. El invitado que no se vistió con el traje de boda adecuado es expulsado del banquete. Se nos recuerda que si bien muchos son invitados al reino de los cielos, no todos pueden cumplir con sus requisitos. Dios nos invita a su fiesta, regalándonos su salvación. Sin embargo, nos pide que nos arrepintamos de nuestros pecados.

The parable Jesus tells is straightforward. The king dispatches his servants to invite the guests to the wedding feast that he is planning for his son. The listeners would have been surprised to learn that the first guests refused the invitation. Who would refuse the king's invitation? A second dispatch of servants follows. Again to the listeners' great surprise, some guests ignore the invitation. Some of the invited guests even go so far as to mistreat and kill the servants. The king invokes his retribution against these murderers by destroying them and burning their city.

We might stop here for a moment. Why would some guests kill the servants sent to invite them to the king's wedding feast? It might be possible that the king was a tyrant, evidenced by the destruction of the city of those who refused his invitation. But if we follow this idea, then the allegory seems to be about something other than the kingdom of heaven. It is more likely that the destruction of the city would have been a powerful image corresponding to the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in A.D. 70, which would have been an important event for Matthew's audience.

With the invited guests now deemed unworthy to attend the king's wedding feast, the servants are sent to invite whomever they can find. The guests arrive, but it appears that accepting the king's invitation brings certain obligations. The guest who failed to dress in the appropriate wedding attire is cast out of the feast. We are reminded that while many are invited to the kingdom of heaven, not all are able to meet its requirements. God invites us to his feast, giving us his salvation. Yet he asks us to repent for our sins.
